Talking To Your Child About READING

Reading is one of the most important skills everyone needs to master to succeed in school, a job, and day-to-day life. These tips will help your child become a better reader.

- Help your child find books, magazines, or other materials about topics that interest him/her.
- Encourage your child to spend at least a half hour a day reading at home.
- Talk with your child about school each day and ask about what he/she is reading.
- Ask who, what, where, when, how, and why questions to help your child identify details in a text.
- Read a story together, then ask your child to tell you in his/her own words what it was about.
- Ask your child to read a story aloud to you using different voices for each character.
- Challenge your child to find, use, and learn to spell one new word a week.
- Read some nonfiction together. Then ask your child to tell you the main point of the piece and how the author supports it with facts and details.

How to Use Study Island

- After signing in on the home page, you'll have the option to either click on My Class or select a program from the navigation bar to start working in Study Island.
- If this is the first time using the program or subject, the student may be required to take a pretest. If there is no pretest option, or if the student has already taken the Pretest, the student will be able to move on to content topics.
- Use the navigation bar on the left-hand side of the screen to access class assignments, reports, high scores, and writing assignments, as well as other sections of the program.
- To pass a topic, a student must satisfy the topic's passing goal, which is based on a minimum number of questions answered and a minimum percentage correct. A Blue Ribbon is displayed next to all passed topics.
- Once a student has passed all of the topics in the subject, he or she will have to pass the post test for the subject. Ignore this step if the subject does not have a posttest.

How to Monitor Student Progress

- Log in to Study Island with the login username and password shown above.
- Click on My Reports.
- Click on a report and select the appropriate grade level.
